

REFERENCES

- Duff, J.S. and Jenkin, J.J. (1981). Salting control possibilities in the Axe Creek Catchment. SCA.
- Duff, J.S., Jenkin, J.J. and David, G.A. (1981). Catchment characterisation for salinity control, Axe Creek, Victoria. SCA.
- Dyson, P.R. and Jenkin, J.J. (1981). Hydrological characteristics of soils relevant to dryland salting in central Victoria. SCA.
- Howitt, A.M. (1937). New Rathscar Mine, Rathscar. Rec. Geol. Surv. Vict. Vol. V, Part III, p. 386-388.
- Hunter, S.B. (1909). Deep Leads of Victoria. Department of Mines, Victoria.
- Jenkin, J.J. (1981). Terrain, groundwater and secondary salinity in Victoria, Australia. Agric. Water Management, 4, 143-171.
- King, R.L. (1978). Explanatory Notes on the St Arnaud 1:250,000 Geological Map, Victorian Mines Department Geological Survey Report 1977/76.
- Lidgey, E. (1898). Special Reports, Lecture on the Deep Leads of Victoria and Some Indications of Ore Deposits. Department of Mines, Victoria.
- Lorimer, M.S. and Rowan J.N. (1982). A study of the land in the catchment of the Avoca River. TC-15, SCA.
- Macumber, P. (1983). Interactions between Groundwater and Surface Systems in Northern Victoria. PhD thesis, Department of Geology, Melbourne University.
- Department of Mines 1888 – 1905, 1909 – 15 Annual Reports
 1918 Mining Development Report
 1908 – 1919 Mining Review
 1904 Mining Standard
 September 1899 Monthly Boring Report
- Department of Mines (1899) Report on Wareek, Progress Report No. X, p. 7-8.