

5. ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The authors would like to thank David Rees and Nathalie Baxter for their invaluable technical advice and support in the field, and Keith Reynard and Angelia Smith patiently entered the information into the GIS. Les Russell supervised the study, and Craig Clifton provided editorial advice.

Special thanks extend to the City of Greater Bendigo staff for their support; especially Paul Noisette, and to Clive Willman from the Geological Survey of Victoria.

Gathering of soils information would not be possible without the support of the landholders in the district, who provided access to their properties. The authors would like to thank those landholders and their families for allowing detailed soil and landform information to be collected on their properties.

The land capability study for the District of Strathfieldsaye was jointly funded by the City of Greater Bendigo, the Department of Conservation and Natural Resources, and the National Landcare Program.
